HONOLULU CLOSE TO BIG SCANDAL

Late advices tell of the arrest at Seattle of George H. Parker, Pacific Coast manager of the United Wireless Telegraph Company, the man who sent Agent Seale to Honolulu a few months ago to sell the bogus stock of his concern. Seale disposed of about 900 shares of the stock here on the strength of boom letters and ca-blegrams sent to this city by Parker.
Anyhow the following is what happened to Parker:

SEATTLE, (Wash.) June 27.—G.
H. Parker, fiscal agent for the United Wireless Telegraph Company for the territory west of the Mississippi river, was arrested today on a Federal warrant charging the use of the mails to defraud. Parker was released under $10,000 bonds. The preliminary hearing was set for August 1st.

The warrant upon which Parker was arrested was based on a letter written to B. B. Shepherd of Des Moines, Ia., April 6th, in which Parker, it is alleged, misrepresented the affairs of the company for the purpose of selling stock.

The arrest was made by two postoffice inspectors and a United States Marshal. Parker was taken completely by surprise and had difficulty in finding his attorney. He was taken before United States Commissioner W. D. Totten, who fixed the bond at $10,000. Parker's attorney protested that this was too high, but United States District Attorney Elmer E.
Todd insisted that it was the proper amount, calling attention to the fact that this was the minimum bail allowed in similar arrests recently made in New York.

Owing to the lateness of the hour, Parker was unable to find any of his friends downtown and after some delay offered to put up a certificate of deposit issued by a local bank for $10,000. Commissioner Totten agreed to this, and Parker and the Marshal went in an automobile to a safe deposit vault, where Parker got the certificate.

Parker is reputed to be a millionaire and is said to have come into his fortune within the last few years, since he has been connected in a high capacity with the United Wireless Company.

The arrest of Parker has a direct bearing upon the recent arrests in New York of President Wilson and Vice President Bogart of the United Wireless Company and of W. W.
Tompkins of the New York Selling Agency. The local inspectors and the District Attorney have been in frequent communication with the Federal officers handling the cases in New York and have been working in harmony with them.

MOHAMMEDAN LAW.

No Crime to Kill a Christian, or With A Revolver.

The case of Wardani, the fanatic condemned to death by the Egyptian criminal court for the murder of the late Prime Minister Boutros Pasha, was last week referred to the grand mufti for confirmation. The grand mufti, we may remind our readers, is a functionary who can be best described as the chief ecclesiastical lawyer of the Mohammedan community in Egypt. On Saturday last the Daily Telegraph published an account of the grounds on which he refused his sanction to the sentence of death. In the first place, he pointed out that the prophet had said nothing in the Koran about the use of revolvers. Therefore apparently he who kills a man with a revolver is not guilty of any crime known to the sacred law. Next, the victim was a Christian, and the life of a true believer can never be taken merely on the ground that he has killed a Christian. Thirdly, Boutros Pasha's relatives had not themselves appeared as prosecutors.

The decision of the final interpreter of the Mohammedan law will sound to most Englishmen like some sort of ghostly opera bouffe, but it would be most unwise to treat it altogether in such a spirit. Undoubtedly the grand mufti's decision will seem not only good law, but good morals and good religion to a very considerable portion of the Egyptian population. It is one of the great difficulties against which Mohammedan states struggle that the sacred law cannot be altered by a hair's breadth by orthodox Mohammedans even though the law commits the true-believer to such appalling paradoxes as those propound-ed by the grand mufti. Curiously enough, however, this fact help to make many Mohammedans acquiesce contentedly, if not gladly, in British rule. A good Mohammedan may always yield to superior force, and if other people will take the responsibility of transgressing the Mohammedan law he need not excite himself about it, but may acquiesce in the social inconvenience produced by such transgression.

We believe we are right in saying that according to the orthodox interpretation of the Mohammedan law it is absolutely impossible to abolish slavery in a Moslem country. Yet many Mohammedans are very glad to acquiesce in its abolition. The practical harm done by the grand mufti's decision has to be considered.

We must face the fact that when War-dani goes to be executed—the grand mufti's opinion will of course be ignored—a great many Mohammedans all over Egypt who care nothing about nationalism will be inclined to the belief that he died a martyr to the true faith. That being so, something will have to be done to strengthen the law in regard to the killing of Christians.—
The Spectator.

SUMMER VACATION.

Get the most out of it. Vacation means rest for the man and woman who is run down through too much society or too much business. A change of occupation and a change of scene re needed to bring one back to normal. At Haleiwa one may have all that is necessary to accomplish results.
The cuisine and the hotel and its environments act as a tonic and no one can spend a week there without feeling benefitted. Teachers attending the summer school are afforded special rates during the summer.

HE HAD BEEN THERE.

Howe—Howdy, old fellow? We are going on a camping trip. Did you ever enjoy a camping trip where you had to do your own cooking and sleep beneath the stars?

Wise—Nope.

Howe—What? Do you mean to say you have never been on a camping trip?

Wise—No, I mean to say that I never enjoyed one.

Perhaps you wouldn't think so hard of your wife's relatives if you knew just what she thinks of yours.
